MAY TAKE THE CASE TO COURT

Very Probable That Mays People Will File Mandamus Proceedings Against Trustee Rhodes.

TO GET A HIGH SCHOOL COURSE

County Superintendent Has Granted The Petition—Many Students Not In School.

It is probable that the residents of Mays will file mandamus proceedings in the circuit court to force the Center township trustee, Chester D. Rhodes, to place a high school department in the consolidated school in Mays. This is not an old argument by any means and was started before the opening of the school year.

The high school for the township is located in the other school about three miles out of Mays. The students in Mays will have to go there and the law provides no way for them to travel, there being no hack over that route.

Consequently at a meeting of the citizens of Mays the end of last month who were interested in the question, by a big majority it was decided to petition the trustee for a high school course in their school. He refused and the matter was referred to the county superintendent who approved of the plan. But still the trustee will not act in accordance with their wishes and they are determined to go to the courts with the matter in order to get what they believe are their rights.

At present there are nearly half of the high school students in the township in Mays and only a few of them are now attending school as they have no means of conveyance.

WAS WIND KIND TO YOU LAST NIGHT?

In Other Words Did it Gently Deposit Piles of Dust in Your Eyes and Mouth?

ECHO OF EQUINOCTIAL STORM

Rushville suffered its first bad dust storm of the season last night, when a wind estimated all the way from twenty-five to fifty miles an hour, kicked up piles of dust and gently deposited them in people's eyes, and if they were favorites the dear pedestrians received a mouth full of the wind's baggage.

There was nothing selfish about the wind last night. It believed in getting a plenty while you were getting it and it did not stop with scattering a little dust around, but it much preferred to shoot it around the corner into people's faces in heaps large enough to choke an ox. The high wind began about three o'clock yesterday afternoon and steadily increased in velocity until about nine last night when it was almost blowing a gale. Rain began falling about ten and the storm was not so disagreeable after the dust was eliminated. It is thought the high wind here was an echo of the storms in the south and that it was partly caused by the equinoctial change.

ARE STILL AT IT.

The grand jury is still pegging away. They adjourned yesterday and were again in session today.

SHELBYVILLE FAIR LOSES

Deficit of About $200 on This Year's Exhibit.

Shelbyville News: The fair association, as shown by the reports of the superintendents at a meeting held in this city Saturday, has about $800 left in the treasury. The association started out this year with $1000 in the treasury.

HIGH SCHOOL TEAM LOOKS LIKE WINNER

Squad Practicing Hard Every Evening to Get in Condition For Games.

SCHEDULE BEING ARRANGED

The members of the high school foot ball squad are engaging in hard practice every evening with the expectation of turning out one of the best eleven in previous years. The new recruits this year are a classy looking bunch and the prospects for a winning aggregation are brighter than they have ever been.

The schedule for the season has not yet been fully arranged although the manager now expects to have some good games here. Negotiations are now on for contests with the best high school eleven in the eastern part of Indiana. It is with regret that the local athletes heard that Shelbyville would have no foot ball team this year. The two schools have always been hot rivals and a game between the two was always interesting and closely contested. They give as a reason for their failure the poor attendance at practice.

BOOSTER BANNERS FLOAT IN BREEZES

"Greater Rushville—Welcome" is the Greeting For Strangers at the Traction Station Now.

TWO OTHERS ARE STRETCHED

Booster banners made their appearance today and he who runs may read what Rushville is doing. Three large banners are now placed at prominent places in the downtown streets. One at the traction station reads: "Greater Rushville—Welcome 1909—6000; 1912—15,000. Another is placed at the headquarters which will be open tonight for visitors. The third is stretched at the intersection of Main and Second streets.

FIRE LOSS ADJUSTED.

Marvin Lively who suffered from a fire at his home in East Eighth street, Saturday night is well pleased with the treatment he has received at the hands of the company in which he had his household goods insured. He held a policy in the German Fire Insurance company which is represented here by R. F. Scudder, and Mr. Miller of Indianapolis was here today and fixed the damage.

—Alonzo Lawin of Bartholomew county transacted business here today.

—Mrs. Martha Gifford, who has been visiting Mrs. Frelove Peters in East Ninth street, returned to her home in Anderson today.

TAX LEVY TO BE MADE MONDAY

City Council in Regular Session Last Night Transacted Usual Business.

SPECIAL MEETING NEXT WEEK

Appraisalment This Year Lower Than Last—Valuation of Properties Reduced.

The city council met in regular session last night and conducted the usual routine of business. Several claims were allowed. It was the intention of the council to make the city tax levy for the year 1909 last night, but the appraisalment was not given to the city clerk until late yesterday evening and the levy could not be figured out. City Clerk Gregg was instructed by the council to notify the C. H. & D. railroad to repair their crossings and the I. & C. traction company to repair Seventh street along their lines.

The appraisalment for 1909 on the personal, real estate, railroad and telephone property in Rushville as handed in by the assessors amounted to $2,743,165.00. This is several thousand dollars lower than the appraisalment last year which was $2,788,225.00.

This will make a difference in the tax levy for this year. The reason for the lower appraisalment is the fact that the valuation on several properties in the city was lowered this year by the board of review. They saw fit to lower the appraisalment of the I. & C. traction property $25,000 which served to lower the total valuation. Then on top of this the State board lowered the valuation of the same property $13,000. The appraisalment on the Park furniture factory was also lowered $3000.

Council adjourned last night to meet again in special session next Monday night when the tax levy will be fixed.

COLT INJURED FATHER AND SON

It Runs Away While Noah Goddard and Son Are Trying to Break It.

YOUNG MAN IS BADLY HURT

While trying to break a colt at Manilla Monday, Noah Goddard and his son Melvin were nearly broken by the colt. They were near the school house in Manilla when the animal became unmanageable and started to run. Before it could be stopped both the men had been thrown to the ground and Melvin was painfully injured. He was thrown upon the wheel of the cart and received several painful bruises. His father's injuries were not so severe.

PLAN AN EXHIBIT IN Y. M. C. C. ROOM

Manufacturers Are Asked to Leave Sample of Their Products There For Inspection.

CONTESTS FOR FARMERS TOO

Prizes Will be Given For Best Corn Shown and For Largest Pumpkin.

The committee which went to Indianapolis to investigate certain industries which there is a likelihood of locating here, returned this morning, pleased with the outlook. A representative of one factory is here today investigating Rushville. While the Republican would be glad to give its readers all the news regarding the factory movement, it is not thought to be good policy to mention the names of managers of such concerns at this stage. Manufacturers themselves oppose such a course until the deals are completed.

Mr. Ogan and Col. Woods say that many people in Rushville are not themselves fully aware of the extent of the resources of this city and county. The better informed each citizen becomes the more favorable impression he can make upon visiting manufacturers and other visitors.

The Young Men's Commercial Club wants a display of the manufactured and agricultural products of Rushville and Rush county at once in its large headquarters room on the ground floor of the Giffin block. It would also like a good representation of views, photographic or otherwise of residences, farm buildings, live stock, etc., from citizens in the headquarters, properly labelled. An exhibitor is at liberty to advertise his products with printed matter, cards, etc., as much as he may desire. Agricultural products displayed will become the property of the club.

Some prizes have been decided upon, viz.: To the exhibitor of the ten best ears of corn raised in Rush county will be given ten dollars. The second best ten ears will call for five dollars. The biggest and best ear will entitle the exhibitor to five dollars. The prize for the largest and heaviest pumpkin will be five dollars. The decisions will be rendered by judges appointed by the Young Men's Commercial Club. It is desired that manufacturers and others placing exhibits in the headquarters will do so at once without awaiting any other announcement. The exhibits will be guarded by a custodian.

LEG BROKEN THREE TIMES

Clem Hall Suffers From Kick by a Fractious Horse.

Clem Hall of Union township is nursing an unusually painful injury as the result of an accident last Monday. He was leading a horse when the animal became fractious and kicked him. The young man's leg was broken in three places. The injury is giving him much pain, but it is thought that he will get along all right and that no serious results will follow the accident.

The first meeting of the Research club will be held at the home of Mrs. Fred Beale in North Oliver street tomorrow afternoon.

MEIKS IN MAYORALTY RACE

Shelbyville Man Well Known Here is Seeking Nomination.

The Republican City Committee held a meeting last night and George H. Meiks, attorneys, who was chosen as City Chairman, tendered his resignation, which was accepted and J. Oscar Hall was chosen to fill the vacancy, says the Shelbyville Republican. Mr. Meiks has been urged to become a candidate for the nomination to the office of mayor and he has accepted. The Republicans will hold their convention next Saturday the hours being from 10 o'clock in the morning until 8 o'clock in the evening.

JOURNEYED MILES TO CLAIM BRIDE

Sargent Rogers of U. S. Regular Army Married Miss Nellie Ray This Morning.

MET HER ON A VISIT HERE

Journeying several hundred miles for a bride is what Arthur Joseph Rogers, sargent in the regular U. S. army, did. He was married this morning to Miss Nellie Ray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hollister Ray, living one and one-half miles from Arlington. The ceremony was performed in the clerk's office by Rev. W. H. Clark.

There is a tinge of romance in the story back of their engagement. Young Rogers came home with the bride's brother, who is a member of the standing army, about five years ago when they both had a furlow. He seemed to like the place very well and he returned again three years ago, this time by himself. This time he returned to claim his bride, whom he had seen only twice before. The bridegroom is located at an army post in Arkansas.

HALL NOW UNDER 3 INDICTMENTS

Wayne County Grand Jury Goes After Insurance Agent Who Operated Here.

PHYSICIANS GIVE TESTIMONY

Earl T. Hall, who embezzled a local physician out of $30 has been indicted by the Wayne county grand jury. Hall will have to answer to three bills of embezzlement, providing all charges are preferred against him, says the Richmond Palladium. Each indictment was returned against him on evidence furnished by three physicians in this city, who state they were swindled out of approximately $10 each, by Hall. Hall will be tried soon in the circuit court. He is now in the custody of Sheriff Meredith.

QUEER EAR THIS.

Mrs. J. A. Root, living near Milroy has an ear of corn which is a great curiosity. It is in the shape of a human hand with a mitten on it. The shape of the hand with the thumb in right position is almost perfect.

—Mrs. Joe Miller, Mrs. James Anderson and Mrs. Atwell Boling went to Indianapolis this morning to visit Mrs. Albert Miller, who is seriously ill.

DEATH ENDS HER LONG SUFFERING

Mrs. Sarah A. Kennedy Passed Away This Morning at 3:15 O'clock of Paralysis.

SURVIVED BY SIX CHILDREN

Had Second Stroke About First of July Which Has Kept Her in Critical Condition.

Mrs. Sarah A. Kennedy, widow of William Kennedy, passed away at her home in North Harrison street this morning at 3:15 o'clock. She has been seriously ill for several months and on several occasions it seemed that death would end her sufferings. Her condition has been considered critical all the time but for the past week she has seemed improved until yesterday her condition assumed a different aspect and she gradually grew worse until this morning when the end came.

Mrs. Kennedy suffered a severe stroke of paralysis about the first of July and since that time has been suffering from the effects which eventually caused her death. This was the second stroke which she had had in her life.

Mrs. Kennedy was born Feb. 3d, 1839 and at the time of her death was 70 years, 7 months, and 19 days old. She has long been a resident of Rushville. Her husband was killed several years ago while working as a carpenter on an elevator at Morristown, he falling off and breaking his neck. The deceased was a member of the Main Street Christian church and was an earnest and sincere attendant and worshipper while her health permitted.

She is survived by six children, Mrs. Manly Pearce of West Fourth street; Harry and Alice who lived at home; Albert of North Morgan street; Fred of Indianapolis; and Will of Los Angeles, Cal.

The funeral services will be at the home Friday morning at 10:30 o'clock, conducted by Rev. R. W. Abberley and Rev. W. W. Sniff of Paris, Ill., who was formerly pastor of the Main Street Christian church here. Burial will be in East Hill cemetery.

ARE EXCITED OVER DYNAMITE CASE

Farmers Near Manilla Unable to Explain the Explosion in the Wheat Drill.

CHARGE MEANT FOR DRIVER?

Farmers near Manilla are still pretty badly worked up over the explosion of dynamite in the wheat box on the drill owned by Jacob Kney last Saturday. There seems to be much mystery about the case and no one can assign any reason for it or even give an idea as to who the guilty person might be. Practically all that is known about the case is that a stick of dynamite was exploded in the box, and that the wheat drill was badly damaged. It is thought by some that the charge was intended for the man who was operating the drill.

HOW A MAN KNOWS HE'S AT THE POLE

Easy Theoretically to Tell, but Hard Practically.

WORK WITH ICY FINGERS.

Weather Conditions Make Taking of Observations Difficult—Latitude Is Ascertained by Means of the Sun or Stars.

According to the scientists, it would be easy theoretically for an explorer to ascertain the fact that he had reached 90 degrees north latitude, or the north pole. Practically, however, the determination of the fact is not without much difficulty. Owing to the intense cold and other adverse meteorological conditions, handling of the instruments needed for observations is a matter of great hardship.

In telling how an explorer could learn that he was at the north pole Professor Milton Updegraff, professor of mathematics, United States navy, and director of the Nautical Almanac, said:

"An explorer approaching the pole at any time on April 21, when the sun is above the horizon to an observer at the pole, would make observations of the height of the sun. At the same time he would take the time on his chronometer or his watch.

"On arriving at the pole he would continue to make such observations for perhaps a day or longer, making an observation once every hour or two. Such observations actually made under the conditions prevailing there would when examined by an expert astronomer probably contain tolerably conclusive evidence of their genuineness.

Look at Stars Instead of Sun.

"An explorer approaching the pole from October to February, when the sun is below the horizon at the pole, might observe the stars instead of the sun.

"On April 21, 1908, the declination of the sun—that is, its distance from the equator—would be a little less than 12 degrees. To an observer at the pole the atmosphere would slightly increase in its apparent height above the horizon. The motion of the sun in declination at that time is about fifty-one seconds of an arc per hour, or about twenty minutes. This is equivalent to one-third of a degree a day, or about two-thirds of the diameter of the sun itself.

"To an observer standing exactly at the pole the sun would during the day move around the horizon at an altitude of about 12 degrees, the height slowly increasing as the declination of the sun increases by one-third of a degree a day. If the observer were provided with a sextant and mercurial horizon he would probably measure the altitude of the sun hour by hour, and, aside from the above mentioned gradual increase in the declination of the sun, the altitude of the sun should remain the same; then the observer would know he was stationed at the pole.

Can Tell Almost Exactly.

"In approaching the pole and at a distance of, say, sixty minutes from it the path of the sun would be somewhat inclined to the horizon, but on approaching more nearly, to within 2,000 feet, an approximation of the described condition would be found.

"Upon an explorer's ability to make these observations with benumbed hands, his facilities for conveying his instruments and his ability to overcome the most discouraging conditions for recording them would rest his claim to the discovery of the north pole."

CLAIMS RIGHT TO SKIRTS.

"Fred" Adams of Council Bluffs Has Been Masquerading Nineteen Years.

"Fred" Adams, a young woman of Council Bluffs, Ia., has appealed to the police for protection and for permission to wear girls' clothing. She says that all her life she has been forced to wear boys' clothes and to pose as a boy. She is nineteen years old. The deception has been practiced, she says, in order that when she became of age she would inherit a large amount of money, payable only to a male heir.

The girl says she lived on a farm near Sioux City and ran away from there to escape being obliged to wear male attire.

According to the girl, her father died before she was born, first telling her mother that should the expected child be a boy he would come into a large inheritance upon attaining his majority; if a girl the inheritance would go to others. The family lived in Plainfield, N. J., and immediately after the birth of the little girl the mother moved west. This was done, the daughter says, to conceal her sex.

All of her life the girl has dressed as a boy and has passed as such. Her only name is "Fred." Tiring of dressing as a boy, she determined to leave her home. She says she has made other efforts to escape, but was not successful.

When Miss Adams made her first public appearance she was attired in a natty blue serge suit, white shirt, black bow tie, blue socks and patent leather shoes. Her hair was cropped close.

Solitude sometimes is best society.—Milton.

SOME OF THE CREDIT GOES TO THE ESKIMO

Without Him Pole Hunting Would Be Very Difficult.

HARD WORKER, BUT DIRTY.

Plenty of Water Around His Land, but None of It Ever Touches Him—Arctic Air Keeps Northern Men in Good Health.

In spite of their differences regarding the discovery of the north pole and other matters, in one thing Commander Peary and Dr. Cook are in thorough agreement. With the other men who have sought "farthest north" records they declare that expeditions to or toward the pole would be almost if not quite impossible without the aid of the Eskimos. Almost all of the long line of arctic explorers have fully acknowledged their indebtedness to the men of the north for their familiarity with arctic conditions and their willingness to work as sledge drivers and burden bearers.

The only true Eskimos on this continent live on the west coast of Greenland from Upernivik to Etah, in the heart of the arctic, less than 700 miles from the pole, where so many fearless explorers have spent their long, dark winter night before the final dash on foot and sledges over ice and hummocks of ice.

With all their virtues of industry, honesty, peaceableness and docility the Eskimos are the filthiest people in the world. They never wash, not even face and hands. The smell of their fur clothing and secretions from the skin causes an odor about their persons, and especially in their igloos and tents, that is unbearable to tenderfeet.

Living in huts of stone or ice in winter, in sealskin tents in summer, Eskimos never marry in the sense we use this word, but mate like animals. Swapping of mates for an indefinite time is common. Eskimos are the most widely scattered people on the globe, dwelling together in small bands, without central authority or government. There are less than 40,000 Eskimos all told.

Safe From Many Diseases.

Eskimos live almost entirely on raw animal food, and this explains the absence of a number of diseases which are common to civilization. Scurvy, so common and deadly among early polar explorers, is totally unknown among Eskimos who eat raw meat. This raw food also explains the absence of enlarged tonsils, glands and goitre. Their perfect, splendid teeth and strong lower jaws mark them completely carnivorous. The exclusion of vegetable food has shortened their intestine, and indigestion is unknown. One would suppose their pure flesh diet would cause biliousness, etc., but the large percentage of oil in their food acts as a gentle laxative and protects them against all harm. The Eskimo eats with relish old rotten blubber that would stagger a buzzard.

Consumption is unknown among the Eskimos in the north, nor is there any skin or bone form of tuberculosis, but when brought to the United States they contract consumption in most virulent form. Of six brought to New York all contracted the disease in less than six months. One who returned to his arctic home made a quick cure.

It is well known that the long arctic winter, with its depressing effects on body and mind, often upsets the best balanced nervous system, even of the natives. But this hysteria vanishes with the summer. Explorers have suffered in the same way, and two have committed suicide. In summer Eskimos get so full blooded that nose-bleeding is very common.

All degenerative diseases that cause so much suffering and death in civilization are absent from the Eskimos. The pure, sterile arctic air contains no germs, but the natives invariably take a bad "ship cold" when they go aboard white men's ships. Nature acts the good sanitarian in the far north and shuts the door against all disease germs. The use of remedies either inside or out is unknown. Wounds heal up at once without mattering. All tumors, warts and cancers are unknown.

Walrus Hunting Is Perilous.

The large number of children and lusty young widows shows the dangers of walrus hunting. The kayak, in which the hunting is done, is a very frail craft. The Eskimo can't swim.

The wounded walrus tears or sinks the little skin canoe, and widow, children and relatives become common charges.

At a distance it is difficult to distinguish an Eskimo man from his mate, as the sexes dress similarly. The outer clothing consists of trousers and a coat fitting close to the body and covering the head by a prolongation of the coat, like a hood. The clothing is made of the skins of seals, land animals and birds. Some of the southern Eskimos have been Christianized, and their mode of life has been brought somewhat into conformity with civilized ideas. The great majority of them, however, believe in a crude form of nature worship and hero veneration.

First Case of September Strawberries.

The first September strawberries ever heard of in New Jersey were placed on sale in Belvidere, N. J., at fancy prices. They came from the farm of David Miller, just across the river in Pennsylvania. He has been experimenting with late berries and declares that they are just as good as those which bloom in June.

SAYS HE CAN REVIVE DEAD.

Hungarian Scientist Willing to Submit Process to Test on Himself.

Thaddeus Tietze, a Hungarian scientist of South Norwalk, Conn., who has spent almost his entire life to discover an elixir that will restore life to a human being any time within several hours of an unnatural death, announces he has accomplished his ambition and is ready to submit himself as a patient for the test. So confident is Professor Tietze that he is willing to give himself as a subject to any death save one that injures a vital organ from acids, such as vitriol, which eats away the flesh.

The mere removal of the blood from the body until respiration stops, suffocation, drowning and the like have no terrors for Tietze, yet he has not been able to find a subject willing to submit himself to a convincing experiment. Tietze comes from a wealthy family in his own country and recently came into a fortune, which has placed him in a position to push his experiments. He began on flies, and then he experimented with dogs and cats. These would be pronounced dead, and several hours afterward he would resuscitate them. The strange part of the discovery is that no artificial respiration or any physical work is needed. He simply buries the subject in a composition that excludes all air and causes a new birth.

What is in this compound the professor refuses to disclose. The men of the medical profession have refused to have anything to do with the compound and the experiment, but the professor is undaunted.

NOW ON STRIKE

Millions of Stomachs Refuse to do Their Work Properly.

All over this broad land millions of stomach owners are being held in humiliation subjection just because they are so stubborn that they will not accept a fair, square and broad-minded offer.

Life is short for all of us; it will be shorter for those who let their stomachs go from bad to worse.

Johnson's Drug Store has a famous prescription called Mi-o-na and they believe so thoroughly in its remarkable curative power that they say to every owner of a distressed stomach that they will guarantee Mi-o-na tablets to cure acute or chronic indigestion and all stomach ailments or money back, and the price is only 50 cents a box.

And still there are stubborn people right in Rushville who won't accept this offer, but continue to suffer from gas on stomach, belching of sour food, stomach pains, foul breath, dizziness, biliousness and headaches just because—just because—that's all. There is no other reason.

Mi-o-na tablets stop dyspeptic agony in five minutes; they cure obstinate cases of indigestion and turn the old stomach into a new one in a few weeks—or money back.

MINNESOTA IS IN MOURNING

Notable Tribute Paid to Late Chief Executive.

PUBLIC ACTIVITY ABANDONED

At the State Capital All Banks, Stores and Offices Were Closed and Buildings Draped in Crepe—Throughout the State Similar Manifestations of Sorrow Were Exhibited, the Whole People Entering Into Mourning For the Passing of the Man Who Held Their Hearts.

St. Paul, Sept. 22.—The late Governor Johnson was accorded one of the most remarkable tributes ever paid to the memory of a public man in Minnesota. The unusual interest and sympathy manifested during his illness has turned into the profoundest grief, for surely no Minnesotan ever got closer to the hearts of his people than did Governor Johnson.

From the hour that the governor's death was first publicly announced by the tolling of a school bell in Rochester, all usual public activity was abandoned. All banks, stores and offices were closed and the buildings draped in black and purple crepe.

Governor Johnson's body was escorted to the special Chicago Great Western train by a throng of citizens from every walk of life. On the train were Mrs. Johnson, a few of her personal friends, state officers and friends of the late governor. As the cortege passed down the street leading to the station the escort lined up on either side with bared heads and the hundreds of people around the depot showed a like respect. Mayor Thompson had proclaimed it a day of public mourning. The mayor and councilmen acted as pallbearers.

All the way along the route to St. Paul flags were at half mast and buildings draped with crepe. At Zumbrota the entire population of the town appeared to be at the station. A touching feature was the appearance of a large number of school children lined up along the platform, each provided with national colors, which were pointed downward. Similar receptions were accorded the special train at other points along the route. Upon its arrival in St. Paul the train was met by detachments of all the local companies of the national guard and an escort of police. In spite of a heavy downpour of rain thousands of people swarmed around the train and the procession to the state capitol, with the militia acting as escort, was witnessed by thousands of people.

Upon arrival at the capitol the body was placed in the rotunda, where it lay in state until this afternoon. Four commissioned officers of the national guard, four sergeants, four corporals and four privates stood guard by the casket until its removal from the capitol. This afternoon the Rev. J. J. Lawler, chaplain of the governor's staff, conducted services in the capitol. Tomorrow the body will be taken to St. Peter, where final services will be held under Presbyterian auspices, with the Rev. R. E. Clark in charge. Interment will be in the family cemetery at St. Peter, where Governor Johnson is to be buried beside his mother. Honorary escorts will be state officers, the St. Paul lodge of Elks, and the Knights of Pythias, who will accompany the special train to St. Peter.

THE NEW GOVERNOR

Adolph O. Eberhart Is Also a Native of Sweden.

St. Paul, Sept. 22.—Adolph O. Eberhart, who by the death of Governor Johnson becomes the chief executive of the state, was born in Sweden thirty-eight years ago, but came to Minnesota in 1881. He attended the public schools and was graduated from Gustavus Adolphus college at St. Peter as a minister of the gospel. Soon after his graduation, however, Mr. Eberhart abandoned church work and took up the study of law in the office of Judge Gray, at Mankato.

Mr. Eberhart has been an enthusiastic Republican ever since he reached his majority. He was at one time clerk of the United States circuit and district courts, and later was United States commissioner. In 1903 he was elected to the state senate. In 1905 he was re-elected. In 1906 he was elected lieutenant governor and was re-elected in 1908.

Declined to Discuss It.

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 22.—Subpoenas commanding the presence of about twenty leading officials of several railroads before the federal grand jury here, the first week in October have been issued. Considerable mystery surrounds the issuing of the summons, which also command those ordered to appear to bring with them certain papers. United States District Attorney McPherson, when asked concerning the subpoenas, declined to discuss the matter or to give any information as to what is to be investigated.

AUTHORITIES WERE PASSIVE

No Attempt Made at Kleff To Control Mob.

ANOTHER MASSACRE OF JEWS

With the Ferocity of Barbarians a Mob of Russians Descends Upon the Jewish Quarter of Populous City and For Three Days Gluts Its Lust For Blood—Vile Crime Laid at the Door of the Reactionaries, Who Resented Jewish Support of the Russian Reform Movement.

Berlin, Sept. 22.—According to information received by prominent Jews of this city, another massacre of Jews by the Russians has taken place at Kleff. The latest outrage began on last Thursday, the Jewish New Year's day, and lasted for three days, during which time eighteen Jews were killed outright, twelve so severely injured that they subsequently died, and 150 seriously injured.

There were a thousand lesser casualties, besides the destruction of several hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of Jewish property.

The Jews had but scant means of defending themselves and succeeded in killing only three of their Russian assailants and injuring a score.

The reactionary party is responsible for the latest anti-Jewish outbreak. It became enraged at the Jews for their support of the reform movement and decided to inaugurate the Jewish New Year with another attack on the Jews, several of which have darkened Kleff's history in the last few years. Hundreds of peasants were hired by the reactionary party and they led in the attack on the Jews.

At the height of the mob's frenzy, one hundred Jewish women and girls were seized by the drunken rioters, stripped of their clothes and forced to gather in a long parade naked through the streets, while the crowds of Russians jeered, reviled and spit upon them.

Two Jewish boys that sought to defend the women against outrage were seized by the mob leaders and thrown into a nearby bonfire that had been built of the plunder of sacked Jewish houses and roasted alive, while the mob danced about the flames.

A handful of Jews, several of them boys, tried to defend themselves against the infuriated mob. They stood against a wall and fired into the mob, killing three. One quick rush by the mob, however, and the little band was overpowered and hacked to pieces. Every one was dismembered and beheaded and pieces of their bodies kicked about the streets.

During the three days of butchery and outrage the authorities passively watched proceedings, pleading that they were unable to check the mob.

TWO BANDS CLASH

Serious Conflict on Street an Incident to New York's Primary.

New York, Sept. 22.—The most serious conflict incident to yesterday's primary throughout Greater New York occurred after a day of hundreds of arrests for disorders at the polls, at a polling place on Second avenue just before closing time. The rival bands of two Tammany leaders clashed, forty shots were exchanged and three men were wounded, one of them fatally. The victims are Frederick Lucas, twenty-six years old, a pugilist; John S. Butcher, twenty-three, an engineer, and Christopher Wright, twenty-two, a clerk. Lucas will die. Several arrests were made.

Laporte, Ind., Sept. 22.—Ed Kroth of Rio Grande, O., was lodged in the county jail by two angry farmers who captured him after a prolonged pursuit. The chase was occasioned by the screams of Mrs. Emma Rotzein, a widow, whom Kroth, it is alleged, attempted to assault in her home at Durham Station. Kroth asked for food. Before the woman could reply, it is said, he attacked her. She is in a critical condition.

Exhausted Bank's Funds.

Creelsboro, Ky., Sept. 22.—The bank of Creelsboro has closed its doors. Local depositors became excited over the condition of the First National bank of Burnside, which recently collapsed and a run was started on the bank here. The depositors were paid off until all the available cash had been exhausted. It is the general opinion that the bank is in no danger of going to the wall.

Christian Church Centennial.

Lexington, Ky., Sept. 22.—The centennial celebration of the founding of the Christian church is in progress here. Lexington is the home of the Christian church, as it was here that Alexander Campbell and Burton Stone joined together the "Campbellites" of one and the "new lights" of the other in the "Church of Christ." The celebration will continue all week.

PRESIDENT URGES CORPORATION TAX

Says It Is the Best Form of Income Tax.

Denver, Sept. 22.—President Taft, speaking last night at the Denver auditorium, where a year ago Mr. Bryan was nominated as his opponent in the presidential race, faced a crowd of thousands that in its noisy welcome and continuing enthusiasm recalled some of the scenes of convention week.

President Taft, switching from his purpose to discuss the question of the conservation of natural resources in his Denver speech, elected last night to take up the corporation tax passed as a part of the Payne tariff bill and to defend it as against the proposition to impose a direct income tax, which he acknowledged seemed likely to pass the senate, when the corporation tax was devised as a compromise. The president strongly urged that all the states should adopt the proposed amendment to the constitution, however, to make an income tax possible in time of need.

The president declared that the corporation tax was in itself the best form of income tax that could be levied, and said he opposed a direct income tax except in cases of emergency.

IT IS WONDERFUL

Many People of Rushville Are Reporting Great Results.

Many of the newspapers of Indiana and Ohio during the past few months have published a great deal about the new medicine that is now creating so much talk here in Rushville. Judging from the reports that are now pouring into Wolcott's drug store, Root Juice is even more wonderful than is generally supposed. A number of home people that have suffered for years with indigestion, rheumatism, kidney troubles or nervous affections are reporting rapid recovery under the puice treatment. A well-known lady who for social reasons does not wish her name published said: "I was confined to my bed when I commenced to take Root Juice, but after taking a few doses, I was able to get up and am rapidly regaining flesh and strength. I had no appetite when I started with the medicine, and the food I forced down would sour and ferment in my stomach, causing a raw, burning sensation that was almost unbearable, but after taking the great remedy a few days, I am able to eat anything and digest it without a single disagreeable symptom."

The people at Wolcott's drug store are now busy listening to reports of this nature and explaining the curative value of the great medicine. The scientist has hundreds of testimonials and many of them are from among the very best people of the county. The juice seems to have a wonderful, soothing, healing and tonic action on the stomach, bowels, liver and kidneys. During the demonstration period it is sold for $1 a bottle, or three bottles for $2.50.

WHITNEY SUPPORTS COOK'S CONTENTION

Word Has Come From Millionaire Sportsman.

New York, Sept. 22.—Harry Whitney, the young New Haven sportsman, upon whose testimony the north pole controversy largely hinges, has been heard from and, in effect, supports Dr. Cook's contention that he reached the north pole. According to a story published here this morning, Mrs. Whitney, his mother, received a letter dated Sept. 5, in which Whitney says: "I saw Dr. Cook at Etah. He has accomplished a great thing. He is bound to become a great man. He claims to have reached the north pole, and from evidences I believe he has."

The gist of the foregoing, according to the published story, was given out by Mrs. William Blodgett of Fishkill, N. Y., a sister of Mrs. Whitney.

Whitney is the man to whom Dr. Cook says that he entrusted some of his instruments and confided the secret that he had reached the north pole. Commander Peary has said that Whitney spoke no word of Cook's discovery, and this has been used largely to the Brooklyn explorer's discredit.

Lack of Typhoid Fever Is Due To Water System

Physicians Say That Disease Is Not Prevalent as It Was in Former Years

All hail the water works system of Rushville! Who would ever believe that it has saved many lives since its installation in this city. But statistics show that such is the case and it cannot be denied. Although physicians have kept no regular record of the case of typhoid fever they are unanimous in the corroboration of the statement that the sickness due to this disease has been reduced by a large per cent. since the water works system has been installed.

This year it is especially noticeable. While other cities are contending with numerous cases of the disease Rushville has not a single case within its borders and everything points to the fact that it is all due to the water.

In previous years before Rushville knew what an up-to-date water system was and had to secure their water supply from any means possible the cases of typhoid fever were very numerous and physicians say that as many as one hundred patients were treated during the winter nearly every year.

Since the system has been installed and draws upon wells of pure water which are pronounced by experts as being near the best in the State, the number of typhoid fever cases will not average over five each year. Within recent years the physicians have always made an effort to trace the location of the germ which caused the disease. In every instance they found that the family where the patient was to be found had been using water from a shallow well near an unhealthy pool of water or stream or that they had taken in the germ in some other city.

Only a few years ago, since the residents of Rushville have had the advantage of the healthy water one family had five cases of the fever in their home during the fall of the year. The germ was finally traced to an old well located in the back part of the yard which was lower than the house and caught all the waste material from the home. The well was condemned and the patients were all cured.

Some Breezy Notes

Fine night for a murder wasn't it? That wind would have blown all the clues away.

A reporter made a story of the storm so breezy it blew away this morning.

You may be through eating dirt now for you surely got your allotted peck last night.

It's a good thing none of those new factories was partly up for that wind would have blown them over.

The Moose lodge was all shot to pieces last night. That is the banner across Main street was.

One clerk was caught using a snow shovel on the dust in front of his proprietor's store this morning.

But it didn't seem to affect the airship in one of the pictures at a five cent show.

Probably a good thing though that no dirigible balloon was "caught out" last night.

What An Invalid Did For Mission Workers

Mrs. A. T. Lyons attended the funeral of a cousin, Miss Lizzie L. Johnson at Casey, Ill., Friday, says the Milroy Press. Miss Johnson had been an invalid for twenty-seven years and for nineteen years she had been confined to her bed. Fourteen years and for nineteen years she had been in missions and began making booklets and selling them to raise money to help spread the gospel. In the fourteen years she has given to mission work $20,000. She was supporting twenty-four native workers, and when she died left enough means to carry on the work for four or five years longer.

What this invalid woman did for missions should put to shame many of our church members who are well and strong.

Other Advantages of Public Library

Paper by A. E. Martin, Who Drew Third Prize in Chautauqua Contest

A free public library exists for the benefit of the entire community, for the masses of the people and not for a few special classes. A public library in its modern acceptation of the term, is more than a fine building with a large collection of books. True the above mentioned features are absolutely essential. The modern public library, consists of a commodious and conveniently arranged building, a well selected collection of books and an up-to-date, wide awake, well trained, practical librarian. The librarian is the all controlling factor in a public library. Library authorities and leading educators consider that 75 per cent. of the efficiency of a successful library is due to the librarian's efforts.

The modern free public library has an assembly room, well equipped with good seats and a platform or stage. Here would be the place where the literary societies and clubs could hold their meetings. This lecture room could be used for the holding of lectures, musical entertainments and socials of various natures. An assembly room of this kind would be a great saving in the wear and tear of our homes, of our school buildings and of our church buildings.

A library is established for the purpose of diffusing information, for culture, for the intellectual and moral uplift of a community, for recreation and pleasure. Rushville has a large population of people who need such an institution in their midst. Hundreds of our citizens are people of limited means who cannot afford a library of their own, who cannot afford any reading matter, and these people spend their leisure time in idling, loafing and lounging about. Their conversation is limited and of a degrading character. These are the people who need a library.

Rushville needs a library to afford a social and intellectual center for a large percentage of her people; to awaken, enthrall and encourage latent talent; to assist and improve the conditions of laboring men, to amplify and dignify farm life; to add a new beauty and purity to the home life; to increase the zeal in home life; to enhance the interests of our schools and produce a generation of workers and thinkers, to instill a deeper religious sentiment and create a purer moral enthusiasm in her citizenship.

One of the prime reasons for the need of a free public library in Rushville, is that Rushville has no Y. M. C. A., organization, no social club of an extensive character, no institutional church, no reading room, or social organizations, no improved public park, where people of all ages and classes may meet and mingle together. Our young and middle aged people have no meeting place other than the saloon, the pool room, the street corners, the depots, freight yards along the railway tracks, creeks and woods. While assembled in such places the crowds get to drinking, gambling, swearing, carousing, rioting and occasionally fighting, which usually ends in a murder committed. Such actions as the above are degrading, injurious and expensive to the individual, to society and to the community.

If Rushville had a free public library, properly conducted, with a room in the basement fitted up for smoking and social room, this room would eventually become the social center of the city. This feature would especially appeal to the laboring classes, to the timid class and to that class of poor people who feel that their clothes, and their manners would not please the aristocratic class, as they term them. This room would contain the magazine section, consisting of all kinds of magazines and periodicals. This would be the room where all the local and cosmopolitan daily papers would be kept. This room could be fitted up with magazines and periodicals on out door life, on hunting, fishing, camping, bicycling, motoring, arial navigation and etc., which would naturally appeal to this class of people. These people would casually examine these periodicals, get interested in certain articles and finally become enthusiastic upon some subject and continue to make further investigation along some practical lines. The incentive thus given may be the beginning of the making of a great inventor, a noted machinist, a promoter, and many other noted successess in various lines of activity. In such an environment as this, indolence is changed to industry; mere existence to living; ignorance to intelligence; coarseness and rudeness to refinement; vice to virtue; despondency to hope and burden making, vicious people to respectable burden bearing progressive citizens.

A free public library could subserve the interests of Rushville's factory population. The librarian could make a selection of books, magazines and periodicals, bearing upon the subject of machinery, its construction, improvements and manipulation. The librarian could secure the reports from the Patent office showing cuts and giving description of patents. These could be conveniently and conspicuously arranged so as to appeal to those mechanically inclined. These reports would stimulate men who work on patents and the world would reap the benefit of useful inventions. Articles concerning the location, purposes and management of factories. The heating, ventilation and sanitary conditions of factories and other articles concerning the life work of these men could read up on their particular line of work, become more efficient and more useful to their employers and thus not only increase their wages, but the lives, their home and their families would be marvelously changed and improved.

As Rushville is located in an agricultural region, works and articles on intensive and scientific farming would appeal to the farming class. The librarian could select works upon dairying, poultry raising, gardening, horticulture, bee raising, etc, which would not only appeal to the farmer's wives and daughters, but would be a source of pleasure as well as of profit and would be a great stride in enhancing the significance and dignity of farm life. Books and magazines upon such subjects as rotation of crops; fertilization, analysis, care and preparation of soil; drainage, importation, breeding and raising of cattle, hogs, sheep and horses; selection and care of seeds of all kinds; useful and convenient, yet simple and inexpensive arrangements for watering, feeding and sheltering stock; latest and most satisfactory makes of farming implements and machinery. The librarian could select books and works pertaining to these various subjects, encourage the reading and study of the same and in this way farm life and rural life would become more attractive and remunerative and tend to check the trend of population cityward and keep the boys and girls on the farm.

The librarian could get in touch with the mothers and daughters of Rushville and inform them that she had accumulated a fund of information upon domestic science, upon fancy work, upon the culture of flowers; how to beautify the home and its surroundings; how to nurse the sick, the characteristics, fitness and duties of a good nurse, and care of furs, clothing and other articles about the home. That certain days of the week at specified hours, the library and the librarian would be at the service of the ladies. In this way the ladies of our city would become not only more proficient, but more interested in their homes. Rushville would then become a city of efficient, cultured wives and mothers, have happier homes, better fed and better groomed husbands and fathers and more rosy-cheeked, bright-eyed, intelligent and useful daughters.

Our city needs a library as an incentive to club life, not social aristocratic caste life, but club life that will instruct, refine and culture the citizens of Rushville. The librarian could suggest lines of work that could be successfully and systematically followed out by the men, women and children of our city. Knowing the lines of work and study that were being pursued by the various clubs of the city, the librarian could select books, papers, magazines and arti cles pertaining to the subjects under consideration.

The library facilities of our schools are very limited and unsatisfactory. A recent member of the State Board of Education, while inspecting our public schools recently said that the schools were sadly in need of reference books. A fine selection of histories, works on biography and splendid reference works would benefit not only the school children, but all classes of people. Most subjects are lightly treated and investigation is not encouraged. The spirit of inquiry is suppressed, rather than encouraged, owing to the lack of books and the sources of information. If Rushville had a free public library with a well equipped juvenile department, that fact would stimulate investigation and research along historical, political, scientific and biographical lines in our public schools. Topics and questions, which are now reluctantly omitted, would become investigators and thinkers instead of mere grinds and imitators.

A library is an institution like the school, the church and the home, serving its definite purpose and meeting certain needs of a community. If Rushville needs the above mentioned institution, then the city needs a library in order to make the life of this community complete, useful and happy. The returns financially, intellectually and spiritually will far surpass the necessary cost and maintenance of a public library and will wonderfully assist in making Rushville a City Beautiful.

Base Ball Up-to-Date

The game was called with Molasses at the bat. Small Pox was catching. Coal was in the box and had lots of steam. Horn was playing first base and Fiddle second base. Corn was in the field and Apple was umpire. When Axe came to bat he chopped; and Coal let Brick walk and Sawdust fill the bases. Song made a hit and Twenty made a score. Every Foot of ground kicked and said Apple was rotten. Balloon started to pitch and finally went up in the air. Then Cherry tried it, but he was a wild one. When Spider caught a fly the crowd cheered. Old Ice kept cooling the game until Coal burnt him with a pitched ball, then you ought to have heard Ice-Cream. Cabbage had a good head and kept quiet. Old Grass covered lots of ground on the field. Organ refused to play and Bread loafed around and put him out. In the fifth inning Wind began to blow what he could do and Hamer began to knock. Then the Trees began to leave. Knife was put out for cutting first base. There was lots of betting on the game and Eggs went broke, but Soap cleaned up. They all kicked when in the heat of the game Coal was put out and his future temporarily coked, but not until he had roasted Pork on his pig-headedness. Balloon went up in the air again when Pigs began to root. The score was 1 to 0 when Apple told Fiddle to take the base. Oats was shocked, not having a grain of sense. Song made another hit, and Trombone tried to slide, but was put out. Meat was playing for a big steak, but was put out at the plate after being roasted by the umpire. The score was 1 to 0 and the game was over. Door said if he had pitched the game he would have shut them out.—Exchange.

Farmers Are Now Knee Deep In Wheat Sowing

The farmer is busy sowing wheat. The rains have made the ground in most places easy to break up and quite an acreage has been turned for seeding. Perhaps in some places more ground has been turned on account of the corn that was blown down by the late winds not being in a condition to make seeding profitable. Yet the man who is up-to-date and rotates his crops will go to the extra expense in order to seed his corn fields. The corn stalks that were crooked by the wind storm are very annoying to the farmer and cause him more or less expense and labor during the seedling season.

Fertilizer will be used this year more than ever. It is figured by most farmers now that fertilizing, while it costs a little more, pays. It may not cause a greater average yield than where no fertilizing was done, but it is said to cause the grain to develop more fully. Fertilizing not only pays for its benefit to the wheat crop, but it remains in the ground and is beneficial to the crop of clover that grows on the ground the next year.

As to the acreage of wheat being not more than last. While the wheat not more tahn last. While the wheat crop the past season was poor, both in average and quality as well, the farmer has come to realize the fact that sticking to a thing pays and this fall he is sowing wheat and next year may be the one that will win for him the "Jack pot."

Bard of Shelby County Has Some Admirers Across Ocean in London Town.

WRITERS PRAISE HIS METER

Alonzo L. Rice, the well known poet of Shelby county, is gaining a most enviable reputation not only in this country, but across the water, says the Shelbyville Democrat. One of his poems, "Christmas Correspondence," has been accepted by The Red Magazine of London, England.

He has also received a letter from the Christian Endeavor World of Boston, one of the most particular publications in the United States, notifying him that it has accepted a poem, entitled "A Peaceful Hour."

Lon Rice is a born poet, to which talent he has added culture, by burning the midnight oil. His meter is the envy of many writers of poetry, and his knowledge of the classics and mythology is unsurpassed.

CHAPTER XXXII.

The Call.

Beyond receiving reports from Kennedy and Banks, who in the interval rode into town and rode out again on their separate and silent ways, Whispering Smith for two days seemed to do nothing. Yet instinct keener than silence kept the people of Medicine Bend on edge during those two days, and when President Bucks' car came in on the evening of the second day, the town knew from current rumors that Banks had gone to the Frenchman ranch with a warrant on a serious charge for Sinclair. In the president's car Bucks and McCloud, after a late dinner, were joined by Whispering Smith, and the president heard the first connected story of the events of the fortnight that had passed. Bucks made no comment until he had heard everything. "And they rode Sinclair's horses," he said in conclusion.

"Sinclair's horses," returned Whispering Smith, "and they are all accounted for. One horse supplied by Rebstock was shot where they crossed Stampede creek. It had given out and they had a fresh horse in the willows, for they shot the scrub half a mile up one of the canyons near the crossing. The magpies attracted my attention to it. A piece of skin a foot square had been cut out of the flank."

"You got there before the birds," said Smith. "Anyway, we were there in time to see the horse."

"And Sinclair was away from the ranch from Saturday noon till Sunday night?"

"A rancher living over on Stampede creek saw the five men when they crossed Saturday afternoon. The fellow was drunk and lied to me about it, but he told Wickwire who they were."

"Now, who is Wickwire?" asked Bucks.

"You ought to remember Wickwire, George," remarked Whispering Smith, turning to McCloud. "You haven't forgotten the Smoky creek wreck? Do you remember the tramp who had his legs crushed and lay in the sun all morning? You put him in your car and sent him down here to the railroad hospital and Barnhardt took care of him. That was Wickwire. Not a bad fellow, either; he can talk pretty straight and shoot pretty straight. How do I know? Because he has told me the story and I've seen him shoot. There, you see, is one friend that you never reckoned on. He used to be a cowboy, and I got him a job working for Sinclair on the Frenchman; he has worked at Dunning's and other places on the Crawling Stone. He hates Sinclair with a deadly hatred for some reason. Just lately Wickwire set up for himself, on Little Crawling Stone."

"I have noticed that fellow's ranch," remarked McCloud.

"I couldn't leave him at Sinclair's," continued Whispering Smith, frankly. "The fellow was on my mind all the time. I felt certain he would kill Sinclair or get killed if he stayed there. And then, when I took him away they sprang Tower W on me! That is the price, not of having a conscience, for I haven't any, but of listening to the voice that echoes where my conscience used to be," said the railroad man, moving uneasily in his chair.

Bucks broke the ash from his cigar into the tray on the table. "You are restless to-night, Gordon—and it isn't like you, either."

"It is in the air. There has been a dead calm for two days. Something is due to happen to-night. I wish I could hear from Banks; he started with the papers for Sinclair's yesterday while I went to Oroville to sweat Karg. Blood-poisoning has set in and it is rather important to us to get a confession. There's a horse!" He stepped to the window. "Coming fast, too. Now, I wonder—no, he's gone by."

Five minutes later a messenger came to the car from the Wickup with word that Kennedy was looking for Whispering Smith. Bucks, McCloud and Smith left the car together and walked up to McCloud's office.

Kennedy, sitting on the edge of the table, was tapping his leg nervously with a ruler. "Bad news, Gordon."

"Not from Ed Banks?"

"Sinclair got him this morning."

Whispering Smith sat down. "Go on."

"Banks and I picked up Wickwire on the Crawling Stone early, and we rode over to the Frenchman. Wickwire said Sinclair had been up at Williams Cache the day before, and he didn't think he was home. Of course I knew the Cache was watched and he wouldn't be there long, so Ed asked me to stay in the cottonwoods and watch the creek for him. He and Wickwire couldn't find anybody home when they got to the ranchhouse and they rode down the coral together to look over the horses."

Whispering Smith's hand fell helplessly on the table. "Rode down together! For God's sake, why didn't one of them stay at the house?"

"Sinclair rode out from behind the barn and hit Wickwire in the arm before they saw him. Banks turned and opened on him, and Wickwire ducked for the creek. Sinclair put a soft bullet through Banks' shoulder—tore it pretty bad, Gordon—and made his getaway before Wickwire and I could reach the barn again. I got Ed on his horse and back to Wickwire's, and we sent one of the boys to Oroville for a doctor. After Banks fell out of the saddle and was helpless Sinclair talked to him before I came up. 'You ought to have kept out of this, Ed,' he said. 'This is a railroad fight. Why didn't they send the head of their own gang after me?'—naming you." Kennedy nodded toward Whispering Smith.

"Naming me."

"Banks says: 'I'm sheriff of this county, and will be a long time yet!' I took the papers from his breast pocket," continued Kennedy. "You can see where he was hit." Kennedy laid the sheriff's packet on the table. Bucks drew his chair forward and, with his cigar between his fingers, picked the packet up and opened it. Kennedy went on: "Ed told Sinclair if he couldn't land him himself that he knew a man who could and would before he was a week older. He meant you, Gordon, and the last thing Ed told me was that he wanted you to serve the papers on Sinclair."

A silence fell on the company. One of the documents passing under Bucks' hand caught his eye and he opened it. It was the warrant for Sinclair. He read it without comment, folded it, and, looking at Whispering Smith, pushed it toward him. "Then this, I guess, Gordon, belongs to you."

Starting from a reverie, Whispering Smith reached for the warrant. He looked for a moment at the blood-stained caption. "Yes," he said, "this, I guess, belongs to me."

CHAPTER XXXIII.

Duty.

The stir of the town over the shooting of Banks seemed to Marion, in her distress, to point an accusing finger at her. The disgrace of what she had felt herself powerless to prevent now weighed on her mind, and she asked herself whether, after all, the responsibility of this murder was not upon her. Even putting aside this painful doubt, she bore the name of the man who had savagely defied accountability and now, it seemed to her, was dragging her with him through the slough of blood and dishonor into which he had plunged.

The wretched thought would return that had she listened to him, had she consented to go away, this outbreak might have been prevented. And what horror might not another day bring—what lives still closer to her life be taken? For herself she cared less; but she knew that Sinclair, now that he had begun, would not stop. In whichever way her thoughts turned, wretchedness was upon them, and the day went in one of those despairing and indecisive battles that each one within his own heart must fight at times with heaviness and doubt.

McCloud called her over the telephone in the afternoon to say that he was going west on the evening train and would not be over for supper. She wished he could have come, for her loneliness began to be insupportable.

Toward sunset she put on her hat and started for the post-office. In the

IT IS SERIOUS

Some Rushville People Fail to Realize the Seriousness of a Bad Back.

The constant aching of a bad back. The weariness, the tired feeling. The pains and aches of kidney ills. Are serious—if neglected. Dangerous urinary troubles follow. A Rushville citizen shows you how to avoid them.

Mrs. William Trennepohl, 1016 W. Third Street, Rushville, Ind., says: "Though I did not take Doan's Kidney Pills regularly or for any length of time, they benefited me wonderfully and relieved a dull, nagging pain across the small of my back that had caused me great misery. At times I could not lie on my back on account of the severe pain that ensued, and I was miserable in every way. My husband procured Doan's Kidney Pills at F. B. Johnson & Co.'s drug store and I am very grateful for the benefit they have brought."

"Time's Flight Turned Backward" SAGE AND SULPHUR Made Her look Twenty Years Younger

READ MRS. HERRICK'S SWORN STATEMENT

STATE OF NEW YORK ss. Rochester, N. Y.

Nancy A. Herrick, being duly sworn, deposes and says: When I was a school girl I had a head of heavy, long, dark brown hair, that was so plentiful, rich and glossy, that it was the envy of many of my young schoolmates, and attracted the attention and remarks of strangers. After I was married and as I grew older, my hair commenced to come out just a little at first, but gradually as time passed it came out more and more, and began to turn gray. I was induced by many good reports heard of Sage and Sulphur, to try a bottle. My hair was quite gray and thin on top when I commenced using Sage and Sulphur, and you may imagine my satisfaction when I found that it was fast coming back to its natural condition, becoming thicker, darker, smoother and glossier than it had been for a long time. I continued the use of Sage and Sulphur and my hair is now in a splendid condition, as heavy and as dark and smooth as when I was a girl of sixteen. From my experience I believe it is one's own fault if they lose their hair, or let it get gray or harsh. It is now four years since I commenced using Sage and Sulphur, and still use it, and my hair still keeps thick, dark, smooth and glossy.

Sworn to before me this 14th day of July, 1909.

meantime, Dickie, at home, had called McCloud up and told him she was coming down for the night. He immediately canceled his plans for going west, and when Marion returned at dusk she found him with Dickie at the cottage. The three had supper. Afterward Dickie and McCloud went out for a walk, and Marion was alone in the house when the shop door opened and Whispering Smith walked in. It was dusk.

"Don't light the lamps, Marion," he said, sitting down on a counter-stool as he took off his hat. "I want to talk to you just a minute, if you don't mind. You know what has happened. I am called on now to go after Sinclair. I have tried to avoid it, but my hand has been forced. To-day I've been placing horses. I am going to ride to-night with the warrant. I have given him a start of 24 hours, hoping he may get out of the country. To stay here means only death to him in the end, and, what is worse, the killing of more and innocent men. But he won't leave the country; do you think he will?"

"Oh, I do not know! I am afraid he will not."

"I do not think I have ever hesitated before at any call of this kind; nor at what such a call will probably sometime mean; but this man I have known since we were boys."

"If I had never seen him!"

"That brings up another point that has been worrying me all day. I could not help knowing what you have had to go through in this country. It is a tough country for any woman. Your people and mine were always

PARIS-BORDEAUX AIR RACE.

Parisian Councilman Wants City to Promote Event.

Quentin Bauchart, an influential member of the city council of Paris, will ask for an appropriation of $20,000 for an aeroplane race between Paris and Bordeaux.

Paul Doumer, former president of the chamber of deputies, reading the lesson of Rheims, declared that the period of preliminaries was now past and that the world's scientists and engineers should set to work on the construction of aeroplanes that should be practical as well as powerful.

Some of the French newspapers especially interested in aviation are already agitating for a change of rules for the international cup, which was won by Glenn H. Curtiss. They say a twenty kilometer (twelve and two-fifths miles) dash does not furnish an adequate test of the merits of the machines and point out that when the conditions were laid down twenty kilometers seemed a great achievement, but this has already been outgrown. It is suggested that a change be made to a long distance endurance race.

Alpaca Coats For Jurymen.

Alpaca coats for jurymen were introduced in the superior criminal court at Boston the other day by order of Judge R. O. Harris. The court said that he desired the jurymen to be comfortable during the hot weather and had ordered the coats, the cost to be borne by the county treasury. If there should be any objection to the step, he stated, he would pay the bill himself.

WAITING TO HEAR PEOPLE'S VERDICT

Arctic Explorers Give Out Final Statements.

NOW UP TO THE SCIENTISTS

Until Competent Authority Passes on the Question of Who First Reached the North Pole, Both Cook and Peary Decline to Add Further to the Statements They Have Already Sub- mitted—Peary Says He Will Accept No Public Honors Until the Contro- versy is Settled.

Sydney, N. S., Sept. 22.—Until the question of the discovery of the north pole has been decided by scientific au- thorities, Commander Robert E. Peary will accept no invitations to recep- tions and no public honors. This he made known in the following state- ment which he gave out for publica- tion:

"Acting upon the advice of General Thomas H. Hubbard and Herbert L. Bridgman, president and secretary re- spectively of the Peary Arctic club, I wish to express my thanks to friends for their kind offers and invitations, and also beg to say that I have decided not to accept any invitations to recep- tions, or any ovations until the present controversy is settled by com- petent authority."

Commander Peary supplemented this briefly. He was asked when the public was likely to get a decision on this subject, and he replied: "I do not know, but what I have to say will not be very long delayed. Whether my statement will be issued in one week or two weeks depends on cir- cumstances."

The explorer left Sydney at 7 o'clock this morning and will reach his home on Eagle Island Friday morning. Ap- parently Commander Peary has made up his mind to remain at that place for some time.

NOTHING MORE TO SAY

Cook Will Wait Until Controversy is Authoritatively Settled.

New York, Sept. 22.—"I have come from the pole. I have brought my story and my data with me. I have not come home to enter into argu- ments with one man or with fifty men, but I am here to present a clear rec- ord of a piece of work over which I have a right to display a certain amount of pride.

"I am perfectly willing to abide by the final verdict on this record of com- petent judges. That must be the last word and that alone can satisfy me and the public.

"Furthermore, not only will my re- port be before you in black and white, but I will also bring to America human witnesses to prove that I have been to the pole."

Such is the sum and substance of the message Dr. Frederick A. Cook brought home in person to America, answering his critics the world over. Under seas and over land it traveled north as fast as electricity could carry it to where another explorer, Robert E. Peary, homeward bound from the pole, was receiving a welcome at Syd- ney as warm in proportion to the size of the crowd as that which greeted Dr. Cook upon his return to his Brook- lyn home.

DESPERATE DUEL

Was Fought at Havana by an Editor and a Statesman.

Havana, Sept. 22.—In the parlor of a private residence in Havana a de- sperate duel with cavalry sabers was fought between Major General Enrique Loynaz del Castillo, a former con- gressman, and Wilfredo Fernandez, editor of El Comercio. After several minutes of fencing Gen. Del Castillo was seriously wounded in the sword arm and was unable to continue fight- ing.

The duel was the outcome of a sar- castic article in El Comercio to the general, who thereupon sent challenge to Senor Fernandez. Both men are skilled swordsmen, and the duel is said to have been the most desperate fought in Havana in many years.

Mexican Inventor's Marvel.

Mexico City, Sept. 22.—Alberto San- chez, an electrical engineer, at present an inmate of Belem prison, claims to have invented an apparatus whereby vision as well as voice may be trans- mitted over an ordinary telephone wire. The prison officials admit that successful tests have been made with models. It is said the contrivance re- sembles short opera glasses attached to a battery.

Preferred Death to Arrest.

New York, Sept. 22.—Apparently fearing to face a charge of passing worthless checks, a man believed to have been J. Elmer White, whose bag- gage contained many checks on South Dakota banks, blew out his brains in Jersey City five minutes after a police officer, acting at the request of Rich- mond (Va.) authorities, had placed him under arrest.

HEAVY TOLL TAKEN BY TROPICAL STORM

Reports From Stricken Section Not Complete.

New Orleans, Sept. 22.—The hurri- cane which devastated the gulf coast and left a trail of wreck and ruin through four states, continued on its course with unabated fury, sweeping north at the rate of 200 miles a day.

Of the ruin that it has wrought, no one can give an estimate. In New Or- leans alone, five are known to be dead and a million dollars will not re- pay the damage done. It is said that plate glass alone will cost $100,000 to replace.

From the little aristocratic summer colonies on the Louisiana and Missis- sippi gulf coast come vague tales of frightful devastation and fears that many lives have been lost. The wealthy summer tourists who own pleas- ure craft are wont to spend much time upon them, and it is possible that many have been lost. Biloxi, the mecca of the wealthy, is still isolated and its fate is unknown. Jackson, Miss., the capital of the state, is still cut off from the coast points. The dome of the new capitol at Jackson was wrecked and the old capitol un- roofed. The streets were a tangle of live wires and the fallen trees and debris made the highways impassable.

At Vicksburg two vessels were sunk and a third was driven ashore. Their passengers were rescued. One vessel lies across the channel and has blocked navigation. From Mobile comes the tidings that the steamer Pleasure Bay is missing, and the people hope that it has been driven ashore and its passengers saved. How many were on board is not known.

In the pretty harbors of Pascagou- la and Bayou St. Louis many slips are empty and moorings tell of the fury of the wind and the waves. Bath- houses, pavilions, yacht slips and pleas- ure resorts that were nightly bril- liantly illuminated and the rendezvous for those who sought relaxation and amusement upon the famous gulf coast are washed away and not a timber remains to mark their locations. And the story in its hideous entirety has not yet been completed.

This arrangement will be kept up until some other plan can be devised. It is probable that an extra teacher will be hired, and superintendent J. H. MORE INTEREST SHOWN IN BOOM

People are Beginning to Realize What the Y. M. C. C. Movement Means to Rushville.

MANY NATURAL ADVANTAGES

Which Appeal to Manufacturers and Make Location of Good Factories Much Easier.

The active interest which is now being evinced upon every hand by the people of Rushville in the success of the Y. M. C. C. movement is very gratifying to those who have formed that organization. Some of the members of the organization say that such work would have been vigorously undertaken many months ago had it not been for the financial depression.

Now that the industrial activities of the country have been resumed, with many of the mills, and factories running both night and day to supply a depleted market, the necessity of going at the work of locating additional manufacturing industries in Rushville is being clearly recognized by the citizens. Before the depression came Indiana was making rapid strides to a place as the chief manufacturing State of the Union. It used to be thought it was necessary to ship the abundant and very diversified raw materials of the State to the east and then have them shipped back again as finished products. In recent years it has become realized that the people of Indiana have a capacity equal to that of the easterners for turning out first class manufactured products. That Rushville had lagged somewhat in keeping pace with some others of the smaller cities of Indiana in getting its proper share of such industries has been due, it is thought, largely to the feeling of complacency which is apt to exist in a community of great agricultural riches.

Occasionally some citizen ventures the suggestion that the natural advantages of Rushville in transportation, socially, etc., ought to be sufficient to cause manufacturers to move their plants here. It is appreciated that these will go far toward obtaining valuable industries upon exceptionally good terms. But those who see the necessity of offering further material inducements to plants thus locating, point out that it usually costs a manufacturer considerable to move an important factory; that the manufacturer derives his revenue from sales of goods which will advertise the city in all parts of the country and that he pays out his money locally for wages, raw materials, taxes, the construction of buildings, and in improvements locally and that this money stimulates and assists local business as the infusion of new life-blood into the community; that if local points of advantage are equal, the manufacturer cares little whether his plant be located in one place or another, but that when his plant has been located he becomes identified in nearly every instance as a public-spirited citizen in all movements for the upbuilding of the community.

With its superb system of transportation lines, situation in the center of the country's population, accessibility to good markets both in the purchase of raw materials and in the hiring of intelligent labor, Indiana has become a favorite with many eastern manufacturers. These generally are preferring the smaller cities to any large city. The expenses of living for their employees
